

REPORTERS ON SHIPS

Admiral Evans To Take Up the Question with Navy Department.

APPLICATIONS HAVE BEEN MADE

Newspapers Anxious to Have Representatives Present to Watch Movement of Battleships, But Navy Department Has Fears.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 21.—Admiral Evans and the officials of the Navy Department will determine during the next few days whether or not representatives of the press will be allowed to accompany the fleet to the Pacific.

When it was definitely announced that the fleet would certainly go to the Pacific applications began to reach the Navy Department from all of the press associations and many of the big papers begging that they be allowed to send representatives when the fleet sailed. It was recognized by the press association and by the newspaper fraternity generally that it would be a splendid thing to have a special correspondent accompany the fleet, observe daily maneuvers and drills, the daily discipline aboard the ships, the frequent target practice and the many other interesting details incident to the great fleet's daily work. It is also recognized that people everywhere would clamor for news of the fleet and its officers when they had reached their final destination thousands of miles away in the Pacific. They wanted too to be able to note the effect so far as possible of the American fleet in foreign waters on some of the other nations of the world, notably Japan.

Admiral Evans and the Navy Department know this also but the navy board of strategy which in some respects resembles the government secret service bureau took the view that it might not be wise or proper to give too much publicity to the work of the fleet in the Pacific or to put the newspaper representatives wise to all of the big fleet's doings. There is no objection, so Navy Department officials say, to the newspaper men accompanying the fleet and sending to

MANY WAIT TOO LONG.

Says This Home-Made, Helpful Mixture Should be Used Promptly.

A well-known authority states that Backache and pains in the loins are only too often the danger signals which notify the patient that something is wrong with the kidneys, and warns every one to be careful, particularly at this period of the year, when the skin pores are closed, forcing the kidneys to do double their work of filtering the impurities and poisons from the blood and system.

At the first sign of Backache or pain in the region of the kidneys, or weakness and urinary trouble, the following simple home recipe should be used. Any one can easily prepare it.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce, Compound Sassaaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Any good prescription pharmacy will supply these three ingredients at small cost, which can easily be mixed by shaking well in a bottle. Few people seem to know the value of these common remedies in the treatment of the kidneys. This simple prescription when taken as directed, will regulate the urine, clear up and remove sediment, overcome back pains and cleanse the entire kidney structure, correcting bladder troubles in just a little while.

Their respective papers from time to time legitimate news stories but there is a fear that some of them might be too enterprising, divulging information which the department might prefer to keep secret, and in consequence might result in a certain kind of press censorship which would be disagreeable alike to the newspaper men and the officials on the ships composing the fleet. The matter is now under consideration and will probably be decided in a few days.

Pet Dog Saves Woman.
Mrs. Samuel B. Leffley, residing near the oil pumping station in West Hemphill township, went to the mail box the other morning to secure the mail, when she was attacked by a young man, a stranger, aged about 30 years. A pet dog, which accompanied the woman, sprang at the rascal's throat, causing him to beat a hasty retreat. Constables are scouring the country for him.—Philadelphia Record.

A Mississippi grand jury has recommended that the Legislature abolish the charter of the town of Waveland because the strife of local factions is hurtful to the welfare of the community.

HARRIMAN IS CHEERFUL

Financier Predicts Great Growth in Railroads Within Next Generation.

SITUATION IS CLEARING UP

Present Liquidation, He Says, Simply Adjustment of Business to More Conservative Basis—No Comparison Between Now and Panic Times.

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 21.—According to Mr. Edward H. Harriman, the present season of liquidation is a wholesome cleaning up. There will be no panic, he says, and when all is over the atmosphere will be clearer and brighter and the situation healthier and more calculated to inspire confidence.

As Mr. Harriman was leaving for New York after delegating his Illinois Central interests to his lawyers until next Tuesday, when he will return, he was asked for an expression of opinion upon the present financial situation.

"Well, that is impossible to say," replied Mr. Harriman. "It has run quite a course already, according to all accounts. There has been a great slackening up of business, and probably the shrinkage of volume will go some further. But my opinion is that there is nothing radical, nothing alarming in this movement. It is only the adjustment of the volume of business to more conservative methods. People will find they can live as well and do business as well on conservative lines, if not better."

Mr. Harriman was asked if the present business depression following close of ten years of good crops and the high prices they have brought was analogous in any degree to the situation just prior to the panic of 1906.

"There is no comparison between the situation now and in 1906," he said. "The panic of 1906 was due entirely to other causes. Why, there is not the making of any kind of a panic in the present financial condition of the country. The foundation is secure, we are simply trimming down a superstructure that in some places is too heavy. When we finish that and our house cleaning that I mentioned we shall be better off. I believe that the greatest growth of railroad enterprise the world has ever seen will take place within the next generation."

PUSHING WORK ON VIRGINIAN.
Tracklaying on the New Railway Has Been Resumed.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 21.—Vice-President and General Manager Raymond Du Puy, of the Virginian Railway Company, has returned to Norfolk after an absence of some ten days. He said this morning that tracklaying up the line of the Virginian, which was suspended for a while because the graders were behind with their work, had been resumed at Big Stone and Brookland, East of the last-named place a great steel viaduct over a valley is to be constructed, and it was desired to lay track to the site of this structure, in order to transport the steel to be used in the viaduct to the point where it is required.

The big cut west of the famous Patrick Henry place, a work of great proportions, which has required the expenditure of much time and money was finished last Saturday. Good progress is being made in the construction of the great piers at Norfolk, two dredges and four or five pile-drivers being on the job now.

The grading of the vast yards here, which are west of the approach to the pier, which is to project out into Hampton Roads just this side of the Jamestown Exposition grounds, is being done now with dispatch, a large force with scrapers being at work leveling the ground.

SOMEWHERE IS LIGHT.

Never a sigh
When the world's going wrong;
Somewhere is light
And the joy of a song!

Bright stars are shining
Through shadows of night;
Open the windows
Of life of the light!

What of the sorrow
That darkens the way,
Never a winter
But rings of the May!
—Atlanta Constitution.

Whistler's Grave.
Whistler is buried not in Chiswick Churchyard where Hogarth lies, but in the cemetery that adjoins it. No stone marks the grave of the artist, which is almost hidden by carefully tended flowers. A little fence of wooden trellis protects it, and over fence and grace trailing ivy, geraniums and honeysuckle grow luxuriantly. The grave is beside the high wall of the cemetery, and partly sheltered by a wild plum tree, overgrown just now by creepers, that has sprung up close to the boundary. Beyond the wall rise ancient yew trees and the more ancient gray tower of Chiswick Church, but modernity asserts itself in the incessant rattling and hammering from the torpedo boat works, whose long ranges of black buildings separate these peaceful acres from the adjacent river.—London Morning Post.

Big Winning On Baseball.
"Shad" Gwiltam, the Pittsburgh sporting man, made a fortune on the baseball series between Chicago and Detroit for the world's championship. The night before the series opened, at the Auditorium Annex, Chicago, 123.

His Dear Old Mother.
"My dear old mother, who is now eighty-three years old, thrives on Electric Bitters," writes W. B. Brunson, of Dublin, Ga. "She has taken them for about two years and enjoys an excellent appetite, feels strong and sleeps well." That's the way Electric Bitters affect the aged, and the same happy results follow in all cases of female weakness and general debility. Weak, puny children too, are greatly strengthened by them. Guaranteed also for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, by all Druggists, 50c.

SCENE FROM "THE LIGHTNING CONDUCTOR," IN WHICH OSCAR FIGMAN IS STARRING.

Gwiltam bet $50,000 to $42,000, mainly with Detroit men, that Chicago would capture the series. The only bet he did not win was for $5,000 that Chicago would capture the first game. As it was a draw, the money was taken down. In the world's championship series between Boston and Pittsburgh, Gwiltam lost $29,000. He won $10,000 when the Giants beat the Athletics, and lost $30,000 when the White Sox defeated the Cubs.—Pittsburgh Dispatch, in New York Times.

Henri Rochefort is Out.
After a union which has lasted since 1880, M. Henri Rochefort and the Intransigent have agreed to separate. For the first time since Mr. Rochefort became editor-in-chief of that paper it appeared yesterday without the leading article by him.

The Intransigent without Rochefort is like the play of Hamlet without "Ham." Only more so. No reason for the journalistic divorce has been made public officially. His name has simply disappeared from the head of the Intransigent. He appeared this afternoon at the head of the Patrie. Unofficially, however, it is an open secret that M. Rochefort has left the journal which he founded on July 14, 1880, because he was no longer the master.—New York Herald.

Vanderbilt Snub Hurts.
The snub administered by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, her daughter, Gladys, and the latter's fiancé, Count Szechenyi, in failing to attend a dinner given on Wednesday night in honor of the young couple by Mrs. A. Lauder Norris at her beautiful cottage, Midcliff, on Bagley avenue, has caused great indignation on the part of Mrs. Norris's friends.

Not a person of the 21 who attended the dinner will talk about it, however, but Mrs. Norris feels keenly the position in which she has been placed before her guests, and, in the Newport language, is "mad through and through."—Washington Post.

Beer Saloons for Women.
"When I was in Berlin," said a clergyman, "I had enough curiosity to visit one of the peculiar saloons for women that they have there. The place interested me, and I am bound to say that it was decently conducted. Berlin is the only city in the world that has those institutions. In our country, where the women are nearly all teetotalers, we don't need them. In England they need them because English women of the lower classes enter the public houses and learn against the bar to sip their beer with as much nonchalance as their husbands."

"In this female saloon in Berlin about twenty-five females were gathered. They looked poor but respectable. Some were smoking cigarettes and others some read the papers, and in a corner a little group argued noisily over an article in a fashion magazine, such as men argue in their own saloons over politics."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

To contradict certain talk and to put the consuming public in possession of the truth, we say in plain words that no one in this town can sell as good coffee as Arbuckles' Ariosa for as little money.

Misbranded and make-believe Mocha and Java, or coffee sold loose out of a bag or a bin, is not as good value for the money, nor can it be sold at as narrow profit, nor reach the consumer under as favorable conditions.

When you buy Arbuckles' Ariosa Coffee you get more than 16 net ozs. of straight, wholesome Brazilian coffee from the largest coffee firm in the world, with that firm's direct assurance that they are giving you the best coffee in the world for the money.
